

THE DAILY DOG

ALL THE NEWS WE SEE FIT TO PRINT

THE DOG SPEAKS

- When a man's best friend is his dog, the dog has a problem.
- To live long, eat like a cat, drink like a dog.
- If you think you are a person of some influence, try ordering someone else's dog around.
- I love a dog. He does nothing for political reasons.
- You don't own the dog, the dog owns you.

THE HISTORY OF GUINNESS

Arthur Guinness built a Brewery at St James Gate, Dublin, in 1759 when he signed a 9000 year lease. For over 260 years, quality standards have been instrumental to the success of Guinness.

At Olde Blind Dog, we also believe in continuing Arthur's legacy by ensuring we pour perfect pints.

Our hard work paid off as we were Officially Perfect Pint Certified earlier this year.

A SNUG SOUNDS LIKE IT MIGHT BE TROUBLE. WHAT IS IT EXACTLY?

A snug is only as troublesome as the people inside it. As you look around, the enclosed table areas you see are called snugs. Snugs gained popularity in 18th Century Ireland, where a pub patron would pay more to sit in the privacy of a snug. Local politicians, traders, and secret lovers would use the snugs for their clandestine meetings. At Olde Blind Dog, it's perfect if you'd like a quieter spot to eat, drink and chat with your group. Slip into a snug and have a pint. It'll be our little secret.

THE TRUE STORY (MORE OR LESS) OF THE OLDE BLIND DOG®

Not so very long ago in the green hills of Ireland, a young pup named Caden (meaning Spirited Warrior) shared a cottage with his master, Sean. Each day, the little white bulldog would rise before sun up and accompany Sean as he tended to his sheep.

At the end of a long hard day, Caden would faithfully follow Sean down the dirt path to their favorite pub. The dog would sit under the bar patiently while Sean enjoyed a pint (or two or three) and traded stories with the locals.

Early evening would become late night, and in true Irish tradition the music grew louder, the patrons sang and the Guinness flowed. These were happy times, especially for Caden, as he enjoyed table scraps and was lavished with more attention than any dog could want.

Legend has it that late one night as they made their way home, they were suddenly attacked by a pack of wolves. Without hesitation, Caden bared his teeth and the fur flew. Although outnumbered, he fought off the pack and sent them howling into the verdant valleys below. Upon arriving home, Sean discovered a severe wound to one of Caden's eyes that would eventually cause his blindness.

Word spread like wildfire. Caden had rid the village of wolves, like St. Patrick had rid Ireland of snakes. He became a hero overnight. Glasses of stout were lifted and songs were sung in his honor.

After that night, when it was time to head to the pub, Sean would say, "C'mon old blind dog, let's have a pint."

As time went on, Sean looked far and wide to find an easier life for him and his faithful dog. They found the perfect place - no sheep, no wolves, but green as an Irish hillside. And that place was Milton, Georgia.

Moved by the story of the legendary dog, a few local friends decided to bring a wee bit of Ireland to this side of the pond. They established an authentic Celtic pub in the heart of Crabapple and named it in his honor.

We welcome you to Olde Blind Dog.

Sláinte Gaelach!

May your glass be ever full
 May the roof over your head be always strong.
 May you be in heaven
